Rain water harvesting

Rain water harvesting is the process of collection, storage and recharging the ground water level. In the college we created a open tank measuring about 37.161sqft with depth of 1.524mts. There will be a collection of 56,630 liters of water in the tank and is utilized for garden.

Bore-well recharge

Apart from Rain water harvesting, In our college ground water recharge is in practice, where around the bore well a pit was created about 6ft dept that covers an area of 10x15sqft. The pit was filled with sand, stone and soil loosely where water seeps easily. This process increases the ground water level around the bore well.
