BEST PRACTICE - I

Water and Soil Test

India is a country of agriculture. The farmers are the backbone of the country. But nowadays many farmers commit suicide because of less yield of crops and unscientific practice of agriculture. The farmer committed suicide at Nalatwad village in December 2016 and another farmer named Sharanagowda Bheemanagouda Basarkoda committed suicide at Kodaganur village in April 2016 and the staff members Prof.A.T.Patil, Dr.B.A.Guli and Prof.S.S.Hugar visited both farmers houses and condoled the family members. Therefore the institution planned to help our farmers. A meeting was held with IQAC committee and discussed over the issue. The committee decided to help our farmers by scientifically testing water and soil quality which would help the farmers in producing more and more yield and get more benefit.

Water and Soil Test for Farmers

Title : Water and Soil Test for Farmers

Goal :

To analyze soil and water for their nutritional status and based on which the nutrient application through fertilizers and manures to meet the crop specific needs are recommended for better soil health management and enhancing economic return to farmers.

Objectives :

- To generate awareness of soil and water testing among the farmers.
- To provide an idea of nutrient availability in a soil and use of manures/ fertilizers based on nutrient presence.
- To promote a sense of quality standards of soil and water to increase the fertility of soil.
- To give an idea of preventing the soil and water pollution to farmers by the optimum fertilizers practices.
- To assess the suitability of water for irrigation.
- To bring a healthy contact between farmers and agriculture department /officers for farming.

The Context :

Agriculture is the basic occupation and also the backbone of economy of our country. Farmers are cultivating their lands unscientifically. They work hard but the crop yield which they got is not more what actually they have expected. The environment also gets polluted by their land activities such as use of more amount of fertilizers and water. This is mainly due to lack of knowledge in using fertilizers and manures and also standards of soil and water. To help the farmers' children/students admitted to our college having rural and agriculture background, so this practice is selected.

The Practice : With the support of management and under the guidance of principal 50 soil samples and 38 water samples were collected from the students of various villages to test soil and water quality for farming of various agricultural products. The samples were collected according to the instructions of agricultural department. The samples were listed and labeled systematically, then sent for testing to the soil and water testing unit of agriculture science centre Vijayapur on 29 September 2021. The test reports of samples were received from soil science department , Agriculture science centre on 5th October 2021. With these reports we contacted Shri Managuli, Assistant Director of Agriculture Department, Muddebihal and Smt. Rajeshwari Nadgoudar, technical officer, agriculture department Muddebihal. The college has organized a program for giving information about test reports by these officers. On 4th January 2022. The Assistant Director and Technical officer guided and distributed the test reports to farmers and the students on behalf of their parents. The function was the most informative and fruitful for students, farmers and faculty members.

Evidence of success :

- Farmers cultivated the habit of visiting agriculture office/department to discuss their problems and to attend the programs organized by department.
- Farmers become aware of the use of fertilizers and soil/water pollution.
- Farmers were motivated or mind to test soil and water periodically for farming.
- Positive feedbacks from farmers.

Problems encountered:

- Farmers are reluctant to incur expenses towards soil and water test.
- Transportation problem to meet the needs of the farmers in the villages.
- Time constraints officers to visit the fields of farmers and also delayed responses.
- Lack of knowledge of farmers in knowing quality standards of soil and water.

- Due to covid -19 pandemic contact between farmers and agriculture officers became difficulty.

Strategies to overcome the problems:

- Consultation of agriculture officers with farmers for testing of soil and water.
- Rescheduling the programs as per the convenience of farmers and agriculture officers/department.
- Financial support by the department /government or testing of the samples at the minimum cost.

Resources required:

- Financial support by Govt/ non -Govt. organizations for testing.
- Testing labs and department officers availability.
- Human resources to train the farmers.

Impact of practice:

- The farmers equipped with modern knowledge of farming.
- The practice made the farmers confident about farming.
